Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 7/6/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

{A} In re page 4 applicant states, Ogawa does not teach or suggest, "the claimed selector, which selects a plurality of image data to be printed by the printer."

The examiner fails to agree, by the user selecting to prepare and print the, "sample image table", based on Fig. 5, has actually selected a plurality of images, in accord to Fig. 5, wherein the information col. 6, lines 58-68, "list of file names is displayed", which reads on wherein the display displays printing information which shows that the plurality of image data is selected are printed as one sheets for two or more images per sheet, as claimed.

Further when more than one sample tables is stored thereafter the user can choose from the sample files and can be printed, col. 7, by using a name or ID.

It is noted that the claims recite, that the plurality of image data selected by the user operable selector but, does not claim, wherein each of the images of the plural (two or more), wherein each image is individually selected by the user, to be printed on one sheet.

It is noted that in Ogawa a user select to create and print a sample image table having multiple images in it, in accord to Fig. 5, deemed met by a single user entry/selection for a sample table but selects a plurality of images with the selection of printing the sample image sheet.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

2. Claims 11-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ogawa et al. (US 6,603,506).

The examiner incorporates by reference the last action against the claims 11-12.

Regarding claim 11 as amended further recites,

- an interface that transfers the image data to a printer (Fig. 1, interface (I/F) Units 10 K & 11 e, camera 10 and printer 11);
- a user operable selector (10 i), which the user selects a plurality of image data (col. 4, lines 61-64, "selects to print a sample image table by using the use of I/F parts group 10 I", therefore, the user has selected a plurality of images based on Fig. 5), to be printed; and

Art Unit: 2621

- wherein the display displays printing information (col. 6, lines 61-, "sample image table ... each frame has a file name ... list of file names is displayed ... instead of displaying one frame video image at a time ..."),
- which shows that the plurality of image data selected by selecting to print a sample image sheet, when the user selected to print a sample image table having a plurality of images, the user has chosen a plurality of image data, thereafter can be printed, as two or more images data per sheet or as one image data per sheet (Fig. 5).

Regarding claim 13, Ogawa further anticipates an external printer (Fig. 1, camera 10 to external printer 11).
